

NORA WILLIAMS

KILLERERIN
Co. GALWAY

Nora Williams was born in 1927 to Thomas and Mary Mannion and raised in a thatched cottage in Carrowmanagh, Killererin, Co. Galway. Both her parents died in 1942.

Subsequently, Nora spent her days on the farm with her brother, and her nights knitting and sewing with her sisters.

She emigrated to England where she met and married Mick Williams.

Shortly afterwards, the young couple returned to the family farm in Clogherboy where they reared nine children.

WRITER AND STORYTELLER

Nora was a prolific writer and storyteller and regularly contributed to the parish magazine until her death in 2016.

Her book Tales from the Past was published prior to her death in 2016 and covers topics such as The Lime Kiln at Carrowmanagh, The Country Wakes and The Thatcher.

Nora has left an invaluable legacy to the people of Killererin. Her records are an important oral and social record of life in our parish and will be cherished and preserved by Killererin Heritage Society.

FIND OUT MORE

KILLERERIN
HERITAGE SOCIETY
Cill Fhír Iarainn
(Church of the Iron Man)

www.killererin.galwaycommunityheritage.org

museum
National Museum of Ireland
Ard-Mhúsaem na hÉireann

2018
EUROPEAN YEAR OF CULTURAL HERITAGE
#EuropeForCulture