Professor Travis Price B. A.

A short biography by Leslie Linthicum references professor Travis Price's anthology titled The Archaeology of Tomorrow: <https://travispricearchitects.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/09/Mirage-Fall-Issuu-SMALLER-VERSION.pdf>

Professor Travis Price B. A. is a celebrated architect, environmentalist pioneer, author, educator, also a philosopher. He is a professor at the Smithsonian Institute. He founded & now directs the non-profit 'Spirit of Place - Spirit of Design Projects.' His modern architectural installations enhance the 'Tales of our Souls.' He has been awarded a Fellow of the American Institute of Architecture. He is a contributing editor to the National Geographic Travel magazine. His home has been described as one of the greenest homes of the world. [xxiv]

When awarded the AIA award for his project 'Procession of the Souls' in Swinford, Co. Mayo: Professor Travis Price stated that 'I am humbled, honoured, and elated. After building twenty – four projects globally, Spirit of place is not only pleased to receive our 6th national AIA design award for the Procession of the Souls. Indeed this project in itself is a procession of the human story in architecture at the forefront of architectural education, cultural tourism, while most importantly lifting the hearts and souls of those we design for and with around the globe. Swinford and all of the Irish projects have elevated the modern world to architecture that speaks to the enduring human spirit. Indeed the Spirit of Mayo is heard round the world! [xxv]

Professor Travis Price published The Mythic Modern Architectural Expeditions into the Spirit of Place. 2012, The Art of Tomorrow: Architecture & the Spirit of the Place 2007 (independent publishers) (Gold Medal winner) also Travis Price Architects 2007 - 2013 during 2013. [xxvi]

During 2014 Travis Price produced a documentary entitled 'Tale of Tongs' which may be accessed at this site: <http://travispricearchitects.com/spirit-of-place/>

Was very honoured to have met Professor Travis Price with his students in Swinford during the launch of 'The Procession of the Souls' installation with the service at the site. He was an entertaining intelligent, humble person, with several amusing antidotes to share! (NBC)
