AN EXHIBITION OF WORK BY STUDENTS OF
ST. JOSEPH'S SECONDARY SCHOOL, CASTLEBAR

The ARTefacts exhibition is inspired by the diverse range of objects and sources on display at the National Museum of Ireland - Country Life.

St Joseph's Secondary School Transition Year students are delighted to present some of these national treasures as seen through their own eyes. Each piece of work showcases their personal observations and reflections, through the use of both contemporary mixed media and traditional techniques.

Each student considered their chosen artefact, re-evaluating and appreciating the visual traditions of the 1900's onwards and comparing these observations with today's ideas, designs and style. Through this process the students have recorded a personal emotional response to their object, resulting in something refreshing and modern.
